WACKENHUT ANNOUNCES HUMANITARIAN AWARDS

AIKEN, S.C. – Wackenhut Services Incorporated, the security contractor at the Department of Energy's Savannah River Site, has recognized two employees for their community service and volunteerism. WSI-SRS is pleased to announce that Ethan Andrews and Alex Neupert are recipients of the WSI-SRS Humanitarian Award.

Ethan has served as a volunteer at Warren Road Elementary School, Toys for Tots, and Trinity on the Hill United Methodist Church. At the church, he is a teacher for a group of high school students and is constantly challenging young people to lead their lives with a purpose. He serves on the Administrative Board and has helped define the church's mission within the community. Ethan is also a faithful contributor to Sheppard Community Blood Center, and has donated over eight gallons of blood in the past 15 years. He is a firm believer in demonstrating his commitment to helping others and actively involves his three children in volunteer activities.

Alex has volunteered for over a year to help a 34-year old adult neighbor learn to read. The neighbor, who is afflicted with cerebral palsy, did not receive a formal education. Alex meets with the neighbor on a regular basis and conducts learning drills to expand the man's vocabulary and reading skills. He has truly made a difference in the man's quality of life.

"I congratulate Ethan and Alex and extend my personal gratitude for their compassion, dedication and commitment to improving the quality of life for those in need," said Randy Garver, Wackenhut's General Manager at SRS. "We place a high priority on giving back to the community, and these two employees exemplify that spirit."

The WSI-SRS Humanitarian Award recognizes employees for their volunteer activities, commitment, and their positive impact on community residents.

Savannah River Site

The Savannah River Site is a key DOE industrial complex dedicated to environmental management and cleanup, nuclear weapons stockpile stewardship, and nuclear materials disposition in support of the U.S. nuclear non-proliferation efforts. The 310-square-mile site also develops and deploys technologies to support environmental cleanup and energy independence. The site is approximately 23 miles southeast of Augusta, Georgia, and 20 miles south of Aiken, South Carolina, the two closest population centers. WSI has provided security services at SRS since 1983.

Wackenhut Services Incorporated

Wackenhut Services Incorporated (www.wsihq.com) is the largest supplier of contract security services to federal facilities connected with nuclear programs and managed by the U. S. Department of Energy. It also provides security and security related services to U.S. Department of Defense agencies and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and facility management services for government installations. WSI is also a leader in the privatization of public services for municipal, state and federal agencies, including supplementary police, fire and emergency services. The Company is based in Palm Beach Gardens, Florida.
